The hired girl's application indicated weakness in spelling, but she seemed to be a good girl, and bright enough otherwise. "Well, bad spelling won't hurt a cook," laughed the farmer who engaged her. He found out differently. The third day he and his sons came in to dinner to find the worst soup they had ever tasted. The two who forced a bit of it down, out of politeness, were taken sick. They asked the new girl about it. "It's from that book," she said, pointing to a volume of "Household Helps." She took it and turned a page. The farmer leaned over and read: "Farmers' Soap."

The Latin student flunked. His quiz had called for a translation of this verse:

Isabilli, Heres ago,
Fortibus es in aro.
Noces, Mari Thebi trux
Vatis inem pax a dux.

After long and painful effort the student had turned in the following:

"I say, Billy, here's a go,
Forty buses in a row."
"No," says Mary, "they be trucks."
"What is in 'em?" "Packs o' ducks."

A visitor to Los Angeles was standing in Pershing Square counting the pigeons. A man tapped him on the shoulder and. asserting that he was a special policeman, said: "Don't you know it's against the law to count those pigeons? It will cost you $14—one for each pigeon you've counted." The visitor paid over the $14 without protest. Later a bystander told him he was foolish to be caught by such an old game as that. "The joke is on the officer," laughed the visitor. "I'd really counted 26 pigeons."

Probably no hope now for a good five-cent cigar, but should we have tougher ones? This would suit the young wife who came in to buy some for her husband's birthday. "Do you want something fairly strong?" asked the clerk. "Yes, please," she said. "Those he smokes now are not strong at all; the ashes break off all the time."

Harder: You know, no matter where I keep my money, my wife always manages to find it.

Herring: Oh, I solved that problem before I was married a year. I keep mine in the basket with my undarned socks.

There was an old man of Clazomenae
Who flourished before Anno Domini:
His breakfast was just
A wine-moistened crust,
For he never had seen any hominy.
